Brooks and Ames Censured. WASHINGTON, February 27 .- While the House was voting on the resolution to lay the whole Credit Mobilier matter on the table, Mr. Brooks held his head down, apparently absorbed in reading. Mr. Ames sat in one of the front seats, leaning his head upon his hand, seemingly following the vote attentively. A boquet stood on the desk before him. The vote was taken in perfect silence, a solemn stillness pervading the hall, and all responses were distinctly heard. The members' seats were all filled, and the galleries packed. Mr. Sargent's first resolution, censuring Mr. Ames, was adopted by yeas 180, nays 36. The resolution censuring Mr. Brooks was adopted by yeas 174, nays 32. The language of Mr. Sargent's resolution is that the House absolutely condemns the conduct of Messrs. Ames and Brooks, and hopes, giving daily and hourly a fadeless then briefly details the Credit Mobilier

Thurman moved to recommit the bill to the Judiciary Committee, with instrucons to provide for the election by the Legislature, or by qualified electors of Utah, of three Commissioners, who shall set in conjunction, with Judge Mar-shall and Clerk, with equal power in selecting persons from whom juries are to be constructed and to previde for write of error to the Supreme Court of the United States, in criminal cases where the punishment is capital, or imprisonment for six months of fine of one thousand dollars. Mr. Morton said that while every one of course disapproved of polygamy, it might be well to inquire how far the United States Government was itself responsible for the institution in Utah. The acts of the Territorial Legislature, in effect sanctioning polyg-amy, had never been annulled by Congress. There was the question, therefore, not been to legalize polygamy. Mr. Thurman withdrew his motion to recommit and offered his proposed version as an amendment, Congressional Appropriations.
